Pitiful Fate of Two Little Girls Near

CHATTANOOGA (Tenn.,) Aug 10.—The facts in a most beart-rending accident, in which two little children were mangled by a train on the Queen and Crescent road, have just been received here from Atlanta, Ga

Ga.

Tilly and Lilly Burgess, aged 6 and 3 years, were sent by their mother to a neighboring farmhouse on an errand. The children were on their way taok. At length they came to a culvert and got down in it. Hardly had they done so when a train dashed around a curve at the rate of torty miles an hour. Engineer Elliott saw the head of one of the Methe series. of torty miles an hour. In an distant the engineer threw his lever back and did all he could to stop the engine. The distance, however, was too short and the train thundered toward the culvert. The only hope of the engineer was that the children would have presence of mind enough to crouch down under the ties.

When a short distance from the children When a short distance from the children he saw the little girl rice to the ties; a little hand was stretched down toward the small sister underneath, thinking to save her and not willing to leave her, as she thought, to die. Hardly had she raised her sister from the culvert when the engine was upon them. The pilot passed over the body of one girl, the iron wheels rolling over it. The other child was lifted high in the air and fell bleeding by the aide of the track. Both were killed.

OHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A mad steer that escaped from the stock-yards caused as much excitement last night as any of the incidents of the strike. The animal almost killed Police Officer Jones and badly frightened several dhers. On getting out of the yards the steer ran east to Stewart avenue and Forty-fifth street. He charged at several children playing on the street, but failed to injure any one. He ran south on the Wabash tracks with a crowd of boys following.

The police, with a patrol-wagon were soon after him, and when they caught up with him; Officer Jones fired at him with a Winchester and missed. The officer appang out of the wagon to get a better chance to firel when the steer charged, Jones waited until it was almost on him, and brought it down with a builtet.

The steer was up in an instant, however, and Jones found he had spent his last cartridge. He stepped behind a telegraph pole, but the steer caught him and gored him, inflicting vary serious injuries. the understanding that the meetings would be suspended for the present. No time was set for resessintance of the conference to-morrow or thereafter, and it was also said that further sessions might be recon-sary in case the Senate acted favorably tomorrow on Genator Hill's resolution di-recting the Senate conferes to report the situation of affairs.

Reved that it would, the conference would practically be relieved of its work, and it would remain only for the House to accept the Senate bill as a lesser evil, as they believe, than the McKinley law, These conclusions were reached after a day of interest and areitement among the day of interest and arcitement among the tariff leaders.

The day opened with the Senate proposition for free sugar still pending before the conference. Chairman Wilson and his associates were actisfied that the tender of free sugar was not made on good faith, and they had therefore requested the Senate, churchy that if the proposition was accepted, it would be adopted by the Senate and the left pressed. It disclosed that me event of the decreased or the free sugar amondment, the hill as a whole would be voted against by thirty-eight Republicans, and by Senators Kyle, Allen and Peffer, Populist, and Senators Caffery and Blanchard, Democrain; a total of forty-three votes, or sufficient to defect it. This poll was made on the best fudgment of the Senate conferees.

The House accepted it as showing con-

The House accepted at as showing conclusively that the tender of the free-sugar amendment, while made in good faith by the Genate conferees, was a means adopted by the conservatives of defeating tariff legislation and leaving the McKinley law in force. The discussion translate the first time the statement that the de-fensive alliance between certain Senators had proceeded further than mutual co-operation and was now reduced to a signed agreement. While the members of the agreement. While the members of the conference did not claim to have seen the greement, they stated as a fact that Senators Kyle, Allen, Peffer, Blanchard and Caffery had reduced their understanding to black and white and had signed it to the effect that they would vote against any bill which did not contain a bounty clause for sugar.

As free sugar would eliminate the bounty provision, the signed agreement was regarded as showing that the five Senators combined with the Republicans, would defeat the bill. It was while animated com-ments were being made on the foregoing conditions that word reached the conference of Senator Hill's coup in the Sen ate. The conference hastily adjourned, the enetors going on the floor to take part

Mr. Wilson was not disposed to attach much weight to Senator Hill's moye at the start, and said that it would be futile, as the Senate could not act while the bill was in conference. This feeling was shared to a large extent early in the day by House leaders, who characterized it as one of the "bluffs" which had been made of late to demoralize the House conferees and force them to yield. Later in the day, however, this feeling gave way to one of profound concorn over the situa-tion and the future of the bill.

At 2 p.m. the conference, or a remnan-of it, again assembled with the Hill reso-lution and the exciting debate thereon as the main topic among them. Little or no ettempt was made to take up items dr chedules, the talk being on the sensational general phases developed, and no progress was made up to 5 o'clock, when the con ses separated without fixing a time for sembling. nator Brice, speaking of the situatio comight, said that for the first time he had to admit that the chances for the bill are not good, but he believed that the parliamentary tangle would be straightened so that the Senate bill could be passed. "Brushing aside all parliamentary cobwebs." he said, "and using common sense, there is no reason why the House can't at any time, concur in the Senate amendment and pass the bill. If the Senat hould now take some further action look ing to indefinite postponement, it migh complicate affairs."

In presenting his resolution calling for a report from the Senate conferces on the tariff bill Senator Hill did what has been tariff bill Senator Hill did what has been in contemplation in one form or another for almost a week. It had been held back indefinitely in deference to the wishes of the Senate conferees, who have been indisposed to have such a question precipitated as long as there was any hope of reaching an agreement. It cannot be definitely ascertained whether they gave their assent to the proceeding on the part of Senator to the proceeding on the part of Senator Hill today, but the best information obtainable is that, while not desiring to evade the duty of informing the Senate of the status of the conference, they did nothing to encourage the decision, and would have preferred that its present motion be deferred for the present.

The significant points in connection with today's proceedings were the votes of such Senators as Allen, Blanchard, Gibson, Murphy, Palmer and Pugh in favor of the consideration of the Hill resolution, the statement of Senator Harris as to the points of difference, and the promise of Senator Vest to give all the facts in detail if the Hill resolution should pass.

The unexpected turn of affairsain the Senate brought out much comment from members of the House, and with few exceptions it was favorable to the move urged by Senators Hill and Addrich for getting the bill out of conference. Several leading members of the House aid they would urge similar resolutions in the House if the House Committee on Rules would permit. The belief, howers, was that unanimous consent would be required, and this condition could not be hoped for. One of the House conferees said at the close of the exciting Senate debate that if the members were anxious to kill the tariff bill they had chosen the right course in supporting Mr. Hill's resolution. This conferee expressed doubt whether the conference would reassemble today or pending the action of the Senato on the Hill resolution.

Some discussion occurred among the Senators after the Senate went into executive session and the opinion was expressed that tomorrow a disagreement would be repeated. It was said that the Senate conference fet the conference-common day feeling that no course but a disagreement was possible. Among the young in detail there is at least a large sprinkling of Democrats, who have grown impatient at the crats, who have grown impatient at the delay in conference, and there is a growning sentiment for a disposition of the question in some way at the earliest practicable time.

What effect the proceedings will have upon the House or the House conference is a matter of speculation. This foremon's conference was prief and all that can be conference is that it failed of an agreement. There are those about the Senate in a position to know all that is to be known, who predict a protracted continuance of contion to know all that is to be known, who predict a protracted continuance of conferences, but the temper of the Senate is at present decidedly against any further great delay and a disagreeing report within the next few days is freely predicted.

The Republicans claim that the bill is in a very critical situation and most of them look for an indefinite postponement in the near future.

Senator Hill expects his resolution to be adopted tomorrow by practically the same adopted tomorrow by practically the same vote that was cast today against going into executive seasion.

In explaining his course today Senator, Hill said: "My object in offering the resolution was to expedite the disposition of the tariff, Every day's delay in injurious to the business interests of the country, and the bill should be disposed of at once, one way or the other. It has now been under negatication in conference committee for ever a month and further delay is absolutely ineccusable. The conference ought to know each other's minds by this time and, if they can't agree, the fact of such a disagreement should be reported to the two houses.

"When no understanding can be reached on a bill, Congress should promptly adjourn and give the country a rest. We have now been in session for nearly a whole year and have had ample opportunity to logislate, A Senator or member who does not know exactly what he wants to do on the tariff question after all the time spent in useless deliberation is unfit to represent any constituency. We have deliberated enough, we want action.

"Congress must rouse from its lethargy and should act in accordance with the public sentiment and not in defiance of it. Either pass the tariff bill at once or adlic sentiment and not in defiance of it. Either pass the tariff bill at once or ad-journ and go home. These are my senti-ments and I believe they are the senti-ments of nine-tenths of the members of ooth parties."

Senator Hill tried to obtain recognition to offer a resolution, calling for information as to the status of the tariff conference, but it was temporarily crowded out and went over until tomorrow.

The resolution had not been read when Senator Gray moved an executive session. Few Senators moved on the viva voce and Senator Hill demanded the yeas and nays. Several conservative Senators voted against the motion, and Senators with Murphy, Pugh, Palmer, Gibson, Gorman, Harris and Jones did not vote. Senator Vest voted yea. The motion was lost—yeas 21, nays 32.

Senator Harris stated that the main disagreement was on sugar, coal and iron ore. Objection was made to the consideration of the resolution, as it lacked sideration of the resolution, as it lacked unanimous consent.

Senator Hill insisted that it was a proper matter for the consideration of the Senate at this time. The Vice-Fresident decided that, under the rules, the resolution must lay over a day.

Senator Vest said he was heartily in favor of the resolution, and added: "When it comes before the Senate tomorrow I shall take occasion to make a statement which can be done without violation of the confidence of the conference."

"It is time, I see," said Senator Vest, "that the calcium light of truth be shed on the work of the conference. Calumnies and false issues, which have been heaped upon the conference, and sent broadcast over the couptry, should be dispelled. With this good in view, I will, when the resolution is considered tomorrow, speak of the infamous lies which have been invented and circulated as the work of the conferees on the part of the Sen-

Fierce opposition was made. Senator Aldrich said the opponents were trying to dilibuster it out of sight. Senator Mills objected that the amendment was not germane to the resolution which was for the consideration of a bill for the issuance of $500,000,000 of treasury notes, which led Senator Aldrich to ask: "Is not the amendment as germane as it is for a Senator to discuss the Chinese question in a tariff speech."

Senator Mills insisted it would be a breach of the rights of the House to direct its conferees to return the bill.

Senator Harris hoped the decencies of parliamentary procedure would be observed. The resolution should go over until tomorrow so that the Senators could til tomorrow so that the Senators could inform themselves on the subject. Senator Cockrell said the Aldrich resolution was practically a new one, and should go over.

The former furnished niahed opportunity for patriotic speeches from the Northerners on a reunited coun-try and a majority voted to instruct the House conferes to support a substitute having practically the same effect as the amendment. ARGUMENTS OF COUNSEL IN THE WORDEN CASE.

Connection of Knox With the Train wreck-All Lawless Acts Under His Guidance — Attorney Hart for the Defense.

ted Press Leased-wire Service.

WOODLIAND, Aug. 10.—Carroll Cook ommenced his argument against the mo dants at 9 o'clock this more and at the noon intermission he had de-ivered himself of about one-half of his dical and merciless arraignment ad evidently made careful prepare s for his speech, and in a logical, d manner, in their proper order, ight together the scattered ends of my, the little things in proof, and them in a marching phalanx of stances, and circumstantial evidence, added, was often stronger than direc lafter tracing the testimony that connected Worden and Hatch with the wreck d Worden and Hatch with the wreck, occeded to develop the connection of and the other defendants with all was used in the consummation of damnable deed. All this was in purof the threat that Knox had mad that not a wheel should turn. Counsel de clared that the Knox conspiracy had gone beyond the orders for a strike. He had announced that they would win "by any means," even by the resort to violence and acceptantion. He mouth not attach he said, to the A.R.U., an organization, the responsibility for the unlawful acts or which Knox and his co-conspirators were gullty. Attorney Cook drew the deadly parallel, supposing that he had openly parallel, supposing that he had openly threatened that Gen. Hart should not re-turn to Sacramento. While Hart is on the way he is followed by an intimate associate of Cook and Hart, who murders him. Cook's friend and confident is ar-rested. He denies that he followed Hart and immediately calls for Cook. What court under heaven, asked Cook, "would refuse to hold me equally responsible with my pal for Hart's murder?

When the court convened this afternoon ttorney Cook continued his argument. Prior to adjournment I showed by the telegrams in evidence that the acts of the strikers had been under the ratificaof Mr. Knox. A telegram shows that were engaged in unlawful acts and regarded as under their influence lawless class to which reference has been made. The evidence points to the fact that all the lawless acts were done by the strikers under Knox's guidance."

Cook quoted coplously from legal authorities to sustain the charge of conspiracy. "We have listended to a speech for the defense by Mr. Gaddis to dismiss the I have heard many addresses, but or such a one as his. He advances no one for such a course, but his speech made up solely of vituperation. He there is no testimony. I have proved a is today. He thinks that Sherburne's mony should be disbelieved. says there is no testimony. I have proved there is today. He thinks that Sherburne's testimony should be disbelieved. Why? Has his testimony ever been contradicted? Mr. Gaddis merely says that in his opinion the boy's testimony is false. Because detectives had charge of the case it should be thrown out. Because the Southern Pacific was interested it should be thrown out. Mr. Gaddis said that Hatch had never been connected with the case. He says that old Ventrein was blind. What if he was? He could recognize a voice. We have shown at least thirteeb directly connected with the crime.

Air. Gaddis winds up by stating that the prosecution had been promising the court for three weeks that he would bring in evidence, but that none had been produced. The prosecution has brought in relance. The promise of the prosecution in this respect has been redeamed. Gen. Hart statcks the Attorney-General, the milities all in fact who took any part in says that Lesher admitted that he committed perjury. He did not. He did areas he told others on the street that he believed that he was to receive a period of the reward for his testimony. This very admission from a simple-minded boy showed his lack of reliability, hence his statement was stricken out. Hart says that Knox declared that he could not control the outside element. Yet we find he sent for the men and brought them to Sacramento."

says that Knox declared that he could not control the outside element. Yet we find he sent for the men and brought them to Sacramento,"

Attorney Hart then commenced his answer. He had not talked long before the decision him was all on fire, and he was eloquently pleading the case of his clients. He reminded the court that the defendants should not be held unless there was some probability of a conviction. The taint of the assassination of the witness Lesher was upon the prosecution, and the power that put him on the stand and then fied from him was under a cloud of suspicion that hung over their whole case.

Gen. Hart went into a careful analysis of the testimony of the boy Sherburne. He read from the court reporter's transcription of the boy's testimony. The lad had sworn that the party he drove to the scene of the wreck was gone from the rig about ten minutes. Counsel contended that the absurdity of the story was its own refutation. The prosecution asked the court to believe that within that ten minutes two fish-olates with six boits in each were removed and a lot of spikes withdrawn. With the tools which it is alleged afley had it was a physical impossibility to do this thing. The manner in which Sherburne had been kept under military guard, denying the defense any opportunity out of court to question him, was a violation of all principles of American justice, which contemplates that all witnesses should come into court free and undefiled. Counsel was not surprised that he bad been brough there by a United States Marshal; that a Southern Pacific detective ate with him and slept with him, for his story was so wholly improbable that it would not stand the contact with the world that ordinarily all honest testimony fearlessly endures.

MAIL ADVICES.

The Steamer City of Peking Arriver

The Steamer City of Peking Arrives from Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The Pacific Mail steamer City of Peking arrived early this morning, fifteen days from Yokohama, bringing advices up to July 24. The Japanese papers give a large number of conflicting dispatches from Corea, but there is little news which has not been anticlipated by the cable. Most of the information is from Japanese correspondents, who send improbable stories.

According to the dispatches brought by the Tokio-Maru, which left Vladivostock on July 12, a portion of the army there are preparing for Corea, while at the port there are seven men-of-war and one transport. Rumors are current among the foreigners there that Japan and China have already commenced hostilities, though the Japanese discredit it. The Russians are said to be advocating an alliance with Japan. At Gensan there are neither Japanese. Japan. At Gensan there are neither Jap-anese nor Chinese troops, and none of the Chinese residents are making preparations ances nor Chinese troops, and none of the Chinese residents are making preparations to leave.

Japanese papers publish a telegram from Seoul, dated July 21, stating that the Japanese Minister urged the Corean government to drive the Chinese solders from Asan by force, if it really wished to demonstrate that it was an independent State. The Japanese Minister pressed the peninsular government to abrogate the existing treaties between Corea and China. Everything is now in a very critical condition. The father of the present soversign is likely to accede to power again. A meeting of the Corean Cabinet, which was held in the presence of the King, has passed a resolution aplying for the assistance of China.

The following three proposals were made by the Japanese Minister to the Corean government: Not to accept the advice of China; to abandon the dispatch of an ambassador to China annually, and to drive the Chinese soldiers from Asan.

Subsequently, under date of July 22, the Japanese Minister in Seoul sent the following telegram to his government: "The Corean government has retused to accept the proposals of the Japanese government, and is it does not appear likely that it will reconsider the matter, it is unavoidably necessary to make fresh resolutions, and thorough preparations should now be made."

Then the Corean government requested the Japanese Eminister to withdraw the Japanese troops from the country, and also the proposals made by the Japanese government to the Corea adopts the Japanese government to the Corea adopts the Japanese proposals other powers will dispatch their bidding. Corea will make the various internal reforms only after the departure of the Japanese troops from Corea. Corea is undoubtedly instigated by China in this course.

The Japan Gazette of July 24 gives the following details of the skirmian near the Royal Palace at Seoul: "Yesterday morning there was a skirmish between Japanese and Corean troops outside the royal palace at 8 o'clock, and, the Corean troops offering resistence, there was a fight for twenty minutes, after which the Coreans were dispersed and fifty of their arms fell into the Japanese troops hands."

Another account says: "To Mr. Otoria account demand the Corean government returned an insolent heply, and the castle showed signs of great disturbance. The Minister placed himself under the accort of Japanese troops, and was going to the royal palace, when the Corean troops fired at him. The Japanese troops responded and the fight was over in twenty minutes and the Minister went to the palace."

Still another version is as follows: "The Corean government having given a most insolent reply to Mr. Otoria second demand the Minister saw the inutility of any longer negonating with the Corean officials and intended to go this morning to the palace to communicate directly with the King. Before this, however, the King resolved to call to his aid his father, Tai-In-Kun, and seak his counsel on the present lamentable condition of the country. On this being communicated to the King's father the latter hesitatied, as he feared that the Bin-Felly would, on hearing this, prevent him by violence from going to the palace. The King was at length obliged to ask the Japanese troops when Tai-In-Kun and account to Tai-In-Kun, and at 8 o'clock Corean troops, under the Bin-Felly's instructions, fired at the Japanese troops, who fired back. Then fight ceased in about twenty minutes. Tai-In-Kun went to the castle in gafety with Mr. Otori. They had an audience wish the King, who fired back in gafety with the sead in hardelion of refection them.

The daily papers of Tokio are coming so frequently under the ban of suspension by the government for the publication of Corean items, terrorist paragraphs and the divulgence, real of imaginary, of official secrets, that the journals have been obliged to arrange for an interchange of subscription lists during the alternate periods of the suppression of their publication.

periods of the suppression of their publication.

A substantial improvement is to be noticed in the piague returns of Hong Kong. The coolies are flocking back to the place again, but trade will require a long time ere it revives. A strong shock of earthquake, lasting three, and a half minutes, was experienced in Yokohama on the evening of July 23, No damage was done.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The steam-ship City of Pekin, which arrived today from Hong Kong and Yokohama, did not have a single Chinese passenger on board. There were only a few Japanese. The Chinese government persists in its refu-sal to allow any Chineses to leave the quantry. sal to allow any Chineses to leave the country.

Among the passengers were Lieut. D. L. Wilson of the United States steamably paritmore. He states that it is almost impossible to obsin any reliable information from the Japanese papers as the government allows very little news of importance to be published and what the government does allow to become public is so one-sided as to be unreliable. Lieut. Wilson says both sides are preparing for a long struggle and that time alone, will tell what the outcome will be.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—J. W. Reinhart, receiver of the Atchison, has resigned his position. Reinhart, before receiving of-dictal information of the contents of Mr. Little's report, sent a letter to the board of direcors and a similar one was also placed in the hands of Chief Counsel Peck of the Unión Trust Company, to be presented to the court.

After tendering his resignation, Reinart stated that so far as he is aware, no mputation has been made on the personal ntegrity or any suggestion that he has arofited in the slightest degree by reason, the matter criticised. The letter con-

REINHART SUED.

NEW YORK, ug. 10.—Matilde Wallace has brought two suits in the Superier Court of the city against J. W. Reinhart, as president of the Atchison, Topeka and Sants Fe road, one to recover $50,000 damages and the other to recover $50,000 damages and the other to recover $500.

The grounds in the action are that Reinhart issued a statement on June 20, 1893, giving the Atchison surplus at $1,915,330 as above the operating expenses, and on September 2, 1893, made another statement showing the excellent condition of the company and the amount of securities held in its treasury. The petitions further charge that, on June 30, 1893, the defendant published on the New York World, a statement showing the condition of the company's affairs.

She sets forth that the statements in the complaint are confirmed by the report of Stephen Little, the expert accountant, who made the statement for the Reorganization Committee, and avers that on the representations made by Reinhard she purchased 1700 shares of Atchison stock and that she is damaged thereby to the amount of the sums she asks to recover. The complaint has been served en President Reinhart.

A Four Thousand Dollar Baby Carriage as a Present.

A Four Thousand Dollar Baby Carriage as a Present.

(Philadelphia Press.) Lord Randolph Churchill, on the occasion of his stay in New York took occasion to find out what it would cost him to have built here a fine coach, which, were it most modest, would be styled a baby carriage. He means to have one built after a very chaborate design, and to present it, with his compliments, to the new heir to the throne of England—the son of the Duke of York. The carriage, when completed, will cost His Lordship at least $4000, and is the most expensive thing in its way that has ever been put together. When it will be built is an undetarmined matitor, but the designs sent to Lord Churchill will take time to realize in fact.

One of them much impressed the would-be denor, and consisted of a canopy, not unlike the hangings over royal beds, with high wheels, and, instead of handles for it to be wheeled along, it had diagic at the side. The furnishings of the vehicle are to be of the most elaborate description, and it is hardly likely that the affair will be completed for some time to come.

affair will be completed for some time to come.

Another design is for what may be termed a royal cradle, and it is possible that that, too, may catch the fancy of the British aristocrat. At any rate, it shows that he thinks New York can do something in that line when he request the tradesmen here to see what they can let him have.

It requires some peculiar procedure to have these gifts accepted in the name of royal infants. Were not Lord Randolph Churchill a personal triend of royalty, it would not be received at all, but as it is the little heir to a great throne will, no doubt, sleep peacefully in time beneath the elaborate superstructure of the tapestry. For the coach is not merely for the babe to ride in, but to sumber in as well, and he can be moved about even in the arms of Morpheus. Lord Randolph Churchill is still very indisposed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Gonzalo de Nuesado and Mr. Rubens, the attorneys of New York, engaged to defend the recent Vive-President of Salvador, Antonio Vive-President of Salvador, Antonio Ezeta, Gen. The attorneys give their version of the case, with what "her expect to do, as follows: "The Vice-President and his three officers took refuge on the U.S.S. Bennington off La Libertad," said they. "This, as you will recall, was about two months ago. They asked afterward to be transferred to one of the steamers of the Paferred to one of the steamers of the Pa-cific Mail Company. ment and suppress a rebellion. The new government had not then nor has it yet been recognized by the United States as a lawful government, and theirfore could not entertain the demand. No warrant could be legally issued.

"We will claim the ex-Vice-President and the officers are detained unfawfully and against their will. This will bring out the theory of the detention, and it will develop one of two things, either the United States is heiding them absolutely without warrant, or else it has secretly recognized the government and issued the warrant. The latter course has not been taken, so far as we have heard. We were to be notified promptly by the Washington authorities in case anything was done.

"On the arrival of the ship here with the refugees aboard, we will make a formal demand for them, and the hearing, we presume, will take place in the United States Circuit Court. We hold even that there is no other side to be considered, under all the direumstances, and therefore question the right of the Salvadorian government, which is not yet recognized, to make a plea there. That is to say, to be represented by attorneys."

The attorneys for Antonio Ezeta and the officers say that even should this position, with its ramifications, be unlawful, which they do not admit, but stand on them, they have yet other grounds on which to be heard before the refugees could be sent back. To send them back, they say, would simply result in their death,

Two Freights Collide on the North

TACOMA (Wash.) Aug. 10.—Two extra freight trains on the Northern Pacific road met in a head-end collision about fifteen miles from this city at noon today. Engineer L. H. Harmon was instantly killed. His fireman, Martin, was so seriously injured that he is expected to die, and both engines were badly smashed up.

The accident was the result of an order given by an old and tried dispatcher. The east-bound train consisted of fifteen cars of lumber and shingles, and the west-bound train of eighty, tye, dumps of coal. Many of the cars were piled up. The accident occurred on a curve. Both engineers and firemen jumped. Harmon broke his neck in so doing. An inquest will be held in the morning.

The dispatcher on whose orders the two trains came together was Frederick S. Rawlins, who has worked here over a year. He was relieved from duty immediately.

The Famous Tides and Their Marks

The Famous Tides and Their Marks
Upon the Rocks.

(Atlantic Monthly:) From the billside above Minas Chiannel we saw several large ships lying at anchor in the protected water between Cape Sharp, on our right, westward, and Partridge Island on our left, eastward. The tide was coming in beyond them, and even at a distance the channel seemed like a river flowing from Fundy into Manas Basin. To gain a nearer view of it, and a slightly different outlook, we drove along the shore until we reached Parreboro pier, which is in a sheitered mook under the lee of Partridge Island. The tiny tub which was to take us across to the Blomidon side, lay at the foot of the pier, waiting for the tide to lift it high enough for passengers to find it.

From the pier a ridge of pebbles runs across to Partridge Island, and on this natural causeway we strolled over to natures's Mont St. Michael, with its grottoed along the Minas Channel to Spitt—appears at a distance to have broken from the projecting end of the cape and to lean outward over the bay, its sharp sides rising to a tooth-like point. A broad scripton of colfin next to it is also separated from the mass of the palisades by a deep cieft. The Micmac story runs that Glooscap, angry with the monster beaver for building a dam from Blomidon across the Minas Channel, freed from the end of the dam on the northern, or Parreboro shore, so that the released waters, runhing toward Fundy, swung the dam round violently, thus forcing the palisades and leaving the broken end showing at Cape Spitt.

that no timber on any forest reser shall be sold except to the higher r on sealed proposals after due ap-ment at not less than the appraised large mills with it, But the worst featu the worst feature of the bill is the effect that the cutting of such immense tracts of timber would have on the water-shed of the adjacent regions. Here in California we have already seen the effor of such work and several large reservations have been formed from the Yosemite to Bear Valley as a result of hard work on the part of our representatives in Congress. The older countries of the world have long since learned the danger of cutting away timber in a reckless manner, thus changing the stream which run down to fertilize the valleys into raging torrents, which carry all be-tore them. In this manner vast tracts of land in Eastern Europe and Western Asia have been transformed from fertile gardens into arid deserts. All the European countries have stringent laws in regard to the destruction of forests. Only trees of and in many cases where one tree is cut ber resources in the United States has to criminal disregard of common sense rules in this direction and the time is when we shall suffer for it. No ion of the United States is more closely interested in this subject that California, where every inch of water represents thounds of dollars. The California represen tatives in both houses should carefully watch this measure and do their utmost to prevent it from becoming a law. Mean-time, it might be well for the Chamber of the hands of our representatives.

Among the felicitous speeches which deserves special mention, as the speaker enunciated in plain and unmistakable terms a statement which was in danger of being namely, that the criticism of the presence which were heard in some quarrers, was

Judge Shaw gracefully and clearly ex-pressed the sentiments of the great ma-jority of our citizens on this subject.

DEMOCRACY, DELAY AND DIS-

How long, oh, Lord, how long? is the cry that goes up from the people of this country, as they note from day to day the protracted and apparently endless discussion over the tariff at Washington. How can these legislators who are thus frittering away time in petty squabbles over stituents after they return home? For many weary months the people of the United States have waited and watched for a definite solution of this tariff ques-tion, in order that something like order might be brought out of the chaos which now reigns that commerce might revive and factories which are now idle reopen their doors, giving employment to thousands of unfortunate men who no scarcely know from day to day where they are to obtain bread for their families Meanwhile, these politicians at Washington, who do not deserve the name of men, continue to talk and talk, and talk. The miserable petty jealousies which are continually cropping to the surface are diagusting in the extreme, and the squabbles which take place in regard to whether certain articles shall or shall not be protected by a duty throw a striking

Unfortunately, the country will be called upon to put up with this sort of thing, or something like it, for another two years. An inbe to adjourn, admitting to say a fraud,

Even the Democrats must admit that the country was in a flourishing condition under Republican rule before this question of a change in the tariff pol icy was stirred up. There was absolutely no need for a change in our tariff policy; the country at large was satisfied. But the Democrats had to make some change in order to justify their existence as a party, otherwise what was the matter with the Republicans? We say they had to make some change, but it would be more the only change which they have sucsettled and patriotic policy to a muddle which nobody, even a Democrat, can quite make out, and on top of this—as a natural outcome of this—we have been afflicted with Populists, and industrial armies, and big strike and the Lord only knows what will come next. How do the Democrats like the record that their party has made thus far, and do they want any more of it?

The San Francisco Examiner, which certainly ought to be well informed on the subject, states that the members of the A.R.U. are very indignant at the action of the Southern Pacific Company in not only refusing to employ men who took an active part in the recent strike, but also preventing them from obtaining employment on other lines in California. employment on other lines in California. Superintendent Fillmore, when approached on the subject, admitted the truth of the statement that he would, wherever possible, prevent men who had been destroying their property, murdering their employees and obstructing the operation of their lines, from obtaining employment in the State, as far as he was able.

This action will doubtless be considered by the strikers as in the nature of a very "rough deal," and there will, of course, be a loud outcry over the out-by the strikers as in the nature of a very "rough deal," and there will, of course, be a loud outcry over the outrage of such a course. This is one peculiarity about these labor agitators. An outrage committed by the men against their employers is simply a legitimate attampt to obtain justice for down-trodden labor—at least that is their idea of it—while any reasonable act by the employer in the line of self-protection against the unreasonable demands of organized ishor is a gross outrage. It is a peculiar perversion of the reasoning faculty which can lead men to look at things in this light. Surely employers of labor have a right to combine for the purpose of protecting themselves as far as possible from men who openly claim the right to paralyze their business, even if it is necessary to destroy property or to sacrifice lives in order to accomplish this. This idea that after an unreasonable strike, attended with violence and outrage, and after the men have lost their fash, baying meanwhile inflicted all the rage, and after the men have lost their fight, having meanwhile inflicted all the damage in their power on the employer, they shall be quietly taken back to work as if mothing had happened, is prepostereus and absurd. It would be just as sensible to open "aue juile and let law-breakers go unpunished. The Eighth Ward Republicans Hold Their First Open Club Meeting and Have a Rousing Time. The Speakers.

A HEARTY "SEND-OFF."

The Eighth Ward Republican Club held its first open meeting last evening in Painter's Hall, on Aliso street. Considering the fact that this ward is regarded as a stronghold of the Democrats, the showing made by the club was indeed a creditable one. There was a good attendance and many visitors from other wards were present and took part in the evening's programme.

A small but proficient orchestra furnished the instrumental music, while Messrs. McClough, B, C. Wholmes and Parker contributed vocal numbers in a pleasing manner.

Brief addresses were made by G. M. Holton, F. E. Lowry, E. A. Meserve, T. F. Laycock, G. F. Bicknell, A. N. Hamilton, H. H. Appel, James Burdette, R. A. Ling, E. C. Hodgeman, P. A. Howard and Mr. Heath.

After the speaking concluded Chairman W. N. Bayley announced that refreshments would be served, and the remainder of the evening was spent in a highly satisfactory social way.

The new club will meet again on Friday night of next week.

almost snoperative. They agree, that a nominee of a convention does not become a candidate until his certificate of nomination has been filed with the proper official. If this view is correct the Republican State ticket need not be filed with the Secretary of State until forty days before election. Meanwhile the Republican State Central Committee and nominees can spend all the money they want to and make all the financial contracts that may be considered 'good politics.'

"This will be rare news for the 'strikers,' who have been met, when asking for small loans, by the statement that the law will not allow candidates or their friends to lend money during the campaign.

"Nominees for county offices have ten days longer in which to get rid of their surplus wealth, as the law does not require their certificates to be filed until thirty days before election.

"Nominees to the Legislature are by law permitted to expand 25 per cent of the money they legitimately receive—that is, one-fourth of $480. School Directors can squander $100 in San Francisco. The Surveyor, who receives $500 a year salary, will have to make his fight on $150. All this, of course, after certificates or nomination have been filed, if the Republican Legal Committee is right."

THE REFERENDEDUM.

"We are availing ourselves of what is known as the referendum more Bherally in this State than they are in any other in the Union," says the San Francisco Call. "The method is not only applied to Constitutional amendment, where it is imperative, but to subjects or general legislation, such as the refunding of the State.

the burdens that so many have carried. Perhaps the greatest gain has been in the power of prayer, and in purity, and in patriotism.

The morning closed with a Bible reading by Miss Georgia Cuthbert.

Among the "Problems That Face Us," by Mrs. Mary Keeny, came up the discussion of the resolution adopted by the sister School of Methods at Pacific Grove. It asks the co-operation of all Christian and temperance societies to aid in defeating all candidates for the coming State Legislature who favor the proposed uniform State license law, or any legislation in favor thereof. After a lively discussion and a denial that such a plank had been adopted by a party, the resolution was passed, as the law was seen to be aimed at local option.

A fine address was then given by Mrs. Kate Tupper Galpin to a large and interested audience. Subject, "Woman's Influence in Municipal Reform." There are two classes of women, domestic and public, but by apt illustration, and clear, logical deductions, she showed that all of these, every woman, has an interest in the affairs of government in every community in which she lives. Municipal affairs are those relating to many homes instead of one. Every woman should be interested in the schools to which her children go; in the care of public buildings, streets, sewerage, in all the surroundings—in the bill-boards of the streets, that influence her children. Remedy, interest yourself, agitate and petition—in every way cast an influence on the side of purity—clean-liness and health. Seek right to help make things better, through equal surrage.

A full discussion and questions testined to the interest taken.

GEORGE HUNTER'S CONDITION.

He Continues to Slowly but Steadily

He Continues to Slowly but Steadily Improve.

The story published in an evening paper of the effect that George Hunter, the first victim of John Craig's murderous work, will be insane in the event of his recovery, seems to be entirely without foundation. Dr. Sheemaker, one of the attending physicians, says that the patient was getting along nicely the last time he saw him, and he could see no reason why his wound should affect him in that way. Dr. Cole, the other physician who has been looking after the case, says that while George Hunter's recovery is slow, it is as rapid as can be expected under the circumstances, and that his mind is gradually coming back to him. He also said that no tendency to insanity had been observed at any time since the wound was received. George Hunter cannot recall a great many things that happened before he was hurt, as has been stated in these columns, but that is not unusual in a case of this kind, and does not at all indicate that ils mind will not ultimately return.

His first medal was from the Emperial Academy of Science of Vienna, given for the discovery of comet No. 2 of 1877. In the following year another medal was awarded him by the same institution for the discovery of comet No. 1 of 1878, and in 1879, still another medal was given him by the same academy for the discovery of comet No. 2 of that year. In 1881 he won the Lalande prise from the French Academy of Sciences, given in recognition of the rapidity of his astronomical discoveries. This was a magnificent testimonial, consisting of a handsome medal, and also f.500 in gold—a rare prize, given to but few American astronomys. The last honor swarded Dr. Swift for achievements in astronomy was the bronze medal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, given in 1892, for the discovery of the famous comet of March 6 of that year.

Previous to the conferring of these several honors. Dr. Swift had been made a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of Empland, and, subsequently, in the same year, he received the degree of Ph.D., from the University of Roohester.

unless we assume that there are two or three radients belonging to two or three different meteoric rings, caused by different comets, all located in the same place. As I have before remarked these meteoroids are thrown off from the tails of the comets and are possibly solid, though exceedingly small—perhaps not larger than a kernel of wheat. These small particles, however, appear quite large, while luminious through their combustion.

Each of these tiny particles revolvs around the sun with the same regularity as the large planets. In the entire earth's atmosphere it is estimated that 400,000,000 of them are burned up each day, all of which are large enough to be seen with the naked eye, and that number immense though it is, must be multiplied by forty to include those that are to be seen through the telescope, thus making the incomprehensible number of sixteen thousand millions (16,000,000,000.) From this fact it would seem that the earth is increasing in size daily (though slewly) from the accumulation of this amount of falling matter. Though almost entirely destroyed there must be a slight residuum of matter, which is attracted to the body of the earth, and this slight addition combined with the heavier deposits of the meteory which, as is well known, often fall upon the earth, makes an addition in weight which is appreciable.

A question of great interest to me is: Why the nun should attract the comet as a whole and yet repel that part of it which forms the tail. This is a great mysery, and yet has been found utterly unserplaned.

Agriculture shows a decline in corn of nearly 26 points since July 1. The average for the antire belt is 63.5, against 95 for the month of July. The condition for August, 1898, was 96.

The great decline is due almost wholly to the extensive and unprecedented severe drought that set in since the last report, and to hot, dry winds that swept over the States of Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and parts of other Western States. In some localities the crop has been injured beyond recovery, while in others timely rains would go far toward assuring fair yields. The averages for the principal States are; Onto, 72; Kentucky, 80; Indiana, 88; Illinois, 75; Iowa, 45; Missouri, 82; Kansas, 49; Nebraska, 33; South Dakota, 29.

The condition of spring wheat has failen since last report 1.3 points, being 67.1, against 68.4 for the month of July. The condition by States is as follows: Wisconsin, 79; Minnesota, 76; Iowa, 82; Kansas, 30; Nebraska, 41; South Dakota, 29; North Dakota, 75; Washington, 83; Oregon, 95.

The advices as to winter wheat from correspondents and others indicate a good yield of excellent quality. The condition of cats has declined two points since the date of the last report, being 76.5, as against 77.7 in July. The condition for August, 1898, was 973. The condition of spring 770 is 79.8 as against 81.7 last month; tobacco, 78, against 81.7 last month; tobacco, 78, against 81 last month; cotton, 98.1, an increase of 2.3 points over July, and 3.5 points over July.

FORTUNE VAINLY LOOKING FOR A MAN.

Twenty-three Thousand Dollars in Hard Cash That One George Gib-son Can Get by Merely Making Himself Known.

To meet the man who is looking for a fortune, is common enough. To find a fortune looking in vain for the man to claim it is, to say the least, unusual. It was a desire to observe more closely so rare a phenomenon that impelled a Times man to call yesterday upon a firm of attorneys in the Bradbury building, to ask for light upon a case of this kind with which they are connected.

The following modest little notice had caught the reporter's eye, appearing at frequent intervals during the last twelve months in different exchanges along the Pactific Coast:

MONEY RUNNING SHORT—THE VENTILATING APPARATUS,

The contract for placing a heating and ventilating system in the High School, which contract the Beard of Education has authorized its secretary and president to enter into, and which is to cost something over $9000, has caused the question to arise as to whether the beard has funds at its disposal to pay for the same.

The common school fund is overdrawn to the amount of $986.49, while in the teachers' salary fund there is $12.422.50. In a few days there will be apportioned about $1500 from the county for the common school fund. Taking from the amount is the teachers' salary fund a sum sufficient to pay the overdraft in the common school fund, and adding thereto the $1500 or so to be received, there will be a little less than $5000 on hand. It will therefore be seen that in order to pay the price named in the contract, the board will have to depend on the merry of the Council for provision being made for it in the tax keyy.

As the contract, or contracts, run for a term of three years, and will involve a large sum of money, it will probably take the Council a considerable time to decide which way to let the work.

It appears to be the understanding among the members of the City Council that the report of the City Attorney, presented to the Council two or three weeks ago, in reference to the condemnation of certain lands for park purposes, which report was referred to the Finance Committee, will be allowed to alumber with the committee for some time at least. It will be remembered that several weeks ago a recommendation of the Land Committee that certain lands in the middle portion of Elysian Park be condemned for that use, was amended so as to include lands adjoining East Side and Westlake parks, and in that form was sent to the City Attorney, with instructions to institute the necessary proceedings for condemnation.

A Troublesome Zanja

A. T. The petition further says: "We call your attention to the fact that, while Toberman street between the points named is only thirty feet wide, it could with little expense be made one of the prettlest streets in the city, and, being the first street west of Figueroa, running through from Washington to Adams, is much used for general driving and traffic in passing through this district. By piping the zanja, roading up the street and an occasional sprinkling you would greatly benefit the general public as well as your petitioners."

The complainant alleges in his complaint that on May 29 last R. B. It is nearly a year now since Messrs. Groff and Letroy first undertook the task of hunting up George Gibson, and during that time they have spent upward of $100 in advertising for him. Advertisments similar to the above, which has been inserted in The Times from time to time, have appeared in the leading papers of Victoria, B. C., Scattle, Tatoma, Spokane, San Francisco, Redwood City, Los Angeles, San Diego, and as far inland as Boise City, Idaho. But thus far all efforts have been in vain; and if George Gibson is not heard from within the next four months the $25,000 will go to other members of the family across the water.

THE EAST SIDE. Showman.

Edward McGinley, a small boy, residing at No. 752 Leonard street, was severely cut on the left cheek, just under the eye, about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The cut was made by an ugby-looking pleec of rusty tin, which was thrown at the boy by a man named A. Bogard.

It appears that young McGinley was standing in Boone's arena, near the corner of Fourth and Wall streets, peeping through a hole in the fence. Something which the boy did enraged Bogard, and, picking up an old piece of rusty in lying on the ground, he threw it at the boy with sufficient force to make an ugly cut and leave the tin sticking to his cheek. Officer Singleton took the boy to the police station, and a warrant was sworn out for Bogard's arrest, on a charge of battery. Bogard was taken into custody an hour or two later and arraigned before Justice Austin in the Police Court. He pleaded not guilty, and claims to know nothing whatever of the affair. Bogard is pleaded not guilty, and claims to know nothing whatever of the affair. Bogard is an attachee of the Midway Plaisance ex-hibit at Third and San Pedro streets.

Unless the market reports are entirely deceptive, our country will have reas calamsity in the loss of something like one of the cost o as against 121,535 cases last year. The sales of wool would have been large, according to reports from the different markets, if there had been sufficient stocks available, but smounted to 7,623,400 pounds at three Elastern markets, as against 9,220,700 pounds two years are. The failures for the five weeks ending August 1 showed liabilities of $12,145,712, of which $5,520,247 of trading conceins. The failures during the past week have been 261 in the United States, as against 394 inst year, and 54 in Canada, as against 250 last year.

NEW YORK, Mug. 10.—There was less animation on the Stock Exchange today than on the preceding days of the week. Trade was restricted by the unfavorable turn of affairs at Washington regarding the tariff, which, coming upon the news of a reported agreement between the Senate and House, gave the traders a set-back which induced many of them to dispose of their holdings, and made others cautious shout extending their times of long stock. London was in the market, both as a buyer and seller, but did not largely enter into the transactions. An other unsettling factor of the specules. They agree that cost is all that stands in the way now, and some of them believe that the removal of this difficulty is near at hand. Teals says: "It may be some years. Perhaps a genius may hit upon the true method concrow." This "true method" does not refer to the production of the light, but to the method for making it cheap, by saving the enormous waste which hes between the stored force of coal and the force exhibited in an arc or incandescent lamp. This waste is nine-tenths or more of the energy possessed by the coal. As for the coming light, it is said to be a succession of sparks discharged at short inbevals in a vacuum. The result is a glow, more or less brilliant, excording to the rapidity with which the sparks are discharged. It is laid down almost as an axiom that this phosphorescent or glow lighting is the coming filluminant, and that millions await the man who first reduces it to a marketable commodity. When such a system of lighting is in use, light, we are told, will be not merely a means of seeing at night, but the great source of beauty in streets and homes, light, we are told, will be not merely a means of seeing at night, but the great source of beauty in streets with melicer radiance; there will be no more black shadows, but an illumination like that of the earth just after the sun sets, before the twilight come on. The seedlings, however, set an enormous crop in the early part of the season, and it is very doubtful at the present time if the dropping is in excess of what is best for the fruit. I have not made a sufficiently wide examination of the orchards to make comparative estimates of the coming crop with that of last year, but have seen enough, I think, to look for no large increase of the navels. look for no large increase of the navels. "A note is received from a prominent-Redlands orange-grower, which conveys the information that the crop for the coming year in that section, in spite of the increased acreage, will not exceed that of last reason. In Riverside the idea seems general that the seedling crop will be an exceptionally light one, and that the increase of budded fruit will not bring the output next winter up to the point expected last year. The same reports are received from other orange-growing sections of Southern California, and the prospect is that no very material increase of the orange crop will exist to interfere with its successful sale. The only thing to fear is the competition of dealers if the exchange does not do business."

To get the best returns out of a small crops can be raised several times a year. This is where California has the advantage of the Western and Eastern States, or at least of those where irrigation is not practicable. Even where it is practicable the climate of those sections will not permit of anything like the same results that are cially in Southern California, that the small farm and intense culture of the soil have been brought to their highest deis a tendency among new-comers to seek to cultivate too much land. This is a great mistake. It is not the amount of his income, but the product of the land which he cultivates. There is much work in connection with irrigating, and the man who tries to irrigate too large an area of land is bound to make a failure of it.

Gardening Here and Abroad.

In a recent article on borticulture in England and America, Garden and Forest admits that in this direction the United States is behind the old country.

On the other hand, no part of the world has ever, in the same time, shown such an enormous growth in the business of rurserymen and florists as has taken place in this country during the past ten or twenty years. We have inherited the idea that forests are inhospitable; that woodlands at the best are only waste lands, and it is only of late years that there has been any development of the sentiment of affection here for trees and native wild growth. The subjugation of nature has been carried on with needless cruelty, and yet, as our surroundings have become more stable and ecure, garden-art has kept pace fairly well with other humanizing and civilizing in-fluences. When we once thoroughly learn the great lesson that the highest art is found in following suggestions of nature, and endless variety of cilmate and of season awaits our effort, and with an untold wealth of native plants, America should have the most effective and diversified gardens in the world.

State Horticultural Society - July Meeting.

Meeting.

A small attendance greeted the opening of the session of the State Horticultural Society on Friday of last week. Many fruit-growers were too busy with their fruit haryest and other orchard work to be present, but the meeting was, as usual, highly interesting and instructive.

The committee to whom was long ago assigned the labor of publishing a pamphlet embodying the best receipts for preparing California dried fruits for the table made a partial report. The obstacle to the speedy publication of such a work is a lack of money to pay for the printing. Mr. Leoling, of the committee, expressed the opinion that the suggestion heretofore made to have it published by the State Board of Horticulture should be abandoned, and that the State Horticultural Society should publish the work in its own name and receive the credit for it. No definite action was taken in this connection.

Mr. Rowley called attention to a publish.

Mr. Rowley called attention to a pub-lished statement that a combination of canners in this State had been effected, with a view to controlling the price of fruit for canning purposes. The allegation had been made by the daily press, and such statements have been widely copied by the country nares throughout.

of the committee regarding the classification of California almonds previously submitted was approved.

A. I. Bancroft presented an able paper relating to the advantages of perforating prunes in their deparation for drying, instead of dipping in hot lye as generally practiced at the present time. In this connection he exhibited a section of a cylindrical perforator lately invented by him, and described at length its probable operation, as well as the needed appliances to accompany it for performing the work in the best, speedlest and cheapest manner. Mr. Bancroft regards his device as an improvement upon the Burrell machine, which has been in limited operation during the past year or two. Cuts of Mr. Bancroft's machine when set up look much like those of the Wass Cylinder Grader, shown for some time past in the advertising columns of the California Fruit Grower. The main difference is that the first four or six feet of the cylinder through which the prunes are passed, consists of a sheet iron cylinder studded with thousands of short, sharp needle points which puncture the fruit in hundreds of places as it passes over them on its way to the lower end of the machine where the grading is effected by devices somewhat similar to the Wass machine of reasonable size and cost, made to revolve about forty-five times per minute, will treat some twenty-four tons of fruit per day of ten hours. Although he has had no opportunity as yet to test his machine with prunes, Mr. Bancroft has tried it with cherries, and exhibited samples of cherries dried after puncturing with this machine. The fruit shown was of excellent quality, and testified to the advantages of the new appliance in the matter of preparing cherries at least.

After the reading of Mr. Bancroft's paper a discussion of the relative merits of perforating and dipping in hot lye took place, in which the merits of each existence was a machine was a discussion of the relative merits of perforating and dipping in hot lye took place, in which the merits of each existence

After the reading of Mr. Bancroft's paper a discussion of the relative merits of perforating and dipping in hot lye took place, in which the merits of each system were set forth. Prof. Allen had knowledge of the workings of the perforators and believed that, in many respects, they are an improvement upon the dipping process, although his advocacy of the machings although his advocacy of the machings aready in use in the Santa Clara Valley was not unqualified. He freely admitted several advantages, but believed the lye process, if properly applied, would nearly several advantages, opposes, if properly applied, would nearly always produce satisfactory results. He believed the perforating process, however, cheaper than the other. Besides some believed the perforating process, however, cheaper than the other. Besides some other advantages, Esof. Allen valued highly that of being able, to dispense with hot fires, boiling lye, etc., that are a necessary part of the present process of handling prunes. Mr. Wilcox believed the perforator did far more satisfactory work than lye, and said that his experience proved conclusively to him that the fruit that was perforated dired better and cured far more uniformly and without "frog belies." He emphasized this point especially, and stated that the necessary expense of curing and preparing fruit treated by the perforator was much less than by the lye process.

Opinions regarding the relative merits of Mr. Banerott's machine and that already in use to some extent in the State seemed rather to incline toward the older ready in use to some extent in the State seemed rather to incline toward the older machine; though, of course, this point can be decided only by use and experience. The claim has been made that prunes dry heavier if perforated, but Prof. Allen did not think this to be the case. He urged careful notes by users of the new appliances to the end of learning positively something of value regarding them by the end of the present prune season. It was conceded that perforated prunes require a little longer time to cure than those treated with lye, yet it was believed by some that the method of perforation will eventually superseds the other now mostly in vogue. Prof. Allen expressed the opinion that perforating machines would be found of great value in treating olives for pickling. He thought that if properly punctured the bitterness could be soaked out of them by the use of clear water in a few hours, requiring no lye at all. Mr. Rowley clied objections faised by makers of other appliances for treating prunes against the use of perforated prunes. The perforated fruit was found to have thicker and tougher skins, and doubtless required an hour longer to prepare properly than those cured by the dipping process.

culture. Opportunities for studying the theory and practice of gardening are offered in several of our agricultural colleges, and there is an increasing effort among young people to acquire a knowledge of trees and shrubs and flowers. Noteworthy, too, is the effort of our growling towns and cities to secure areas for parks and public gardens. Besides this we already have parks and private places, which, for unity and consistency of design, for breadth and simplicity of treatment and for the absence of features essentially petty and vulgar, are not excelled by any in the world, and inquirers for advice from competent landscape-gardeners are increasing in numbers every year.

Outlook for Canned Goods

Our letters continue to show that sugar corn has been neglected or lessened by the small packers, says the Baltimore Trade, July 20. The great corn canning companies, however, have in about the same panies, however, have in about the same acreage. Taken altogether, the acreage will be somewhere between 50 and 60 per cent. of last season's. and the packing season for it abnormally shortened.

Taken altogether, the prospects for the canned corn pack would be for about a half pack as compared with 1893. But the pack of 1893 was not consumed; there is a good remainder of it lying by mainly in distributers' hands and hoping for a market. Were, the general prosperity an average of the past six years, there would not be canned corn enough in eight and prospect to hold the price down to 75 cents for ordinary corn; but all the environments are unfavorable to sprices higher than now quoted; potatoes will be cheap, and they have a direct effect on the value of canned corn and peas, especially in hard times. Half of our industrious are idle, and the bands still, employed are daily having wages reduced, so the cash in the purchasing market (the masses) is being reduced; hence, if we have on September 20 only about 70 per cent, as much canned corn in sight as we had on the same date last year, et will be as much as we need.

How many fruit-growers in Los Angeles county or elsewhere would send say $500 to "Harris & Co." or any other unknown house in Tacoma or elsewhere, and ask them to invest it in town lots for the benefit of the sender? Why will fruit-growers trust so absolutely to wholly unknown men long distances away, when there are always near home honorable dealers, known to shippers to be responsible and straight in their dealings? Experiences with such people as those in Tacoma, referred to, ought to teach shippers the value of estibilishing proper business relations with their home dealers, rather than strike out wildly in the dark with the general result of being cheated. It must almost necessarily result in disasters, great or small, and it is just this sort of indiscretion on the part of guilible shippers, that has brought much unjust reproach upon commission dealers as a Foreign Fruit Supply. The falling off of the importation of fruit from foreign ports this year is re-markable, says the New England Grocer During the first six weeks of the present year there have been imported at New York only $21,655 worth of oranges, as not compete. The decreased importations of raisins is owing to the superiority of California fruit, which has driven them out of the market. People are doing without nuts in the hard times, and this is the reason why they are not largely imported.

Cause of Rusty Oranges.

Cause of Rusty Oranges.

The New England Homestead says:

"Rusty oranges are caused by an insect which is invisible to the naked eye. It is a great source of annoyance to the orange-grower and causes a loss of thousands of dollars each year to the growers. The rust mite is only the 1200th part of an inch long. The eggs are deposited singly or in clusters over the leaves and hatch in four or five days. In about ten days they shed their skins, and reach the adult condition, which differs from the young in being a little darker. It is during the hot, moist weather in summer when they become abundant, cold or dry weather checking them. On examination of a single leaf infested with them the investigator estimates the number of mites and eggs at seventy-five thousand. These little creatures are able to travel twelve feet per bour, so they are able to cover a great deal of space in a short time. The result of the little fellows' work is not slightly and late in the season there is not much difference in price. The russet fruit holds is places better than the bright, and late in the season there is not much difference in price. The russet fruit holds is places better than bright. Almost any of, the insecticides now in use will destroy the rust mite, but the trees must have several applications, for they work the year round, as their food is the oil of the rind of the crange and other citrus truits."

Boring for Water on California Street—An Intersting Experiment Which May Solve the Water Ques-tion—Briefs and Personals.

People with small lamines or are arriving here all the while with the ation of remaining, and they want houses are not too large for them. There are small houses, or, indeed, any kind, now rent in this city, although this is the season, and this fact suggests the suppon that if some capitalist were to build to cottages not too far from the center of m, to rent at a reasonable price, he could to a profit on the investment. He could do this if he had to buy some very highead land, but a good many owners of unproved lots might mesure for themselves income by building little cottages upon m, to be moved off when the march of gress demanded more pretentious houses that particular locality. Even in a city mansions the needs of people in cottages until be considered. Good citizens are frently found living in small houses.

VALDEZ IS DEAD.

THE SHOTS FIRED BY SAND-FORD PROVED FATAL

What the Autopsy Showed—Sand-ford Taken into Custody and Locked Up on a Charge of Murder-The Inquest.

John Sandford is now lodged at the County Jail awaiting trial on a charge of murder. After thirty-six hours of intense suffering Antonio Valdez, the victim of Tuesday night's fierce quarrel at the Machado dairy, near Ballona, passed away at 8-o'clock yesterday morning from the effects of the two bullet wounds inflicted by Sandford's deadly revolver.

When Valdez died Sandford, who was out on $2500 bonds, at once gave himself up to the authorities, and was brought to the County Jail from Santa Monica yesterday morning.

Dr. Place, under directions from Coroner Cates, made a post mortem examination on the body of Valdez, assisted by Dr. Griffen. They found that the bullet, which struck him in the neck, passed out again, making only a shallow flesh wound, not more than a quarter of an inch deep. But the ball in the groin was one that did the mischief. It entered the left side, just above the illum, flattened on its crest, but was redeflected inwards because the outer ligaments were more tense than the inner. Passing into the pelvic cavity it punctured one of the small intestines, and was found near the bladder. The puncture est-the intestine was the serious part of the business, and marked the shot as necessarily fatal. An inquest was held Friday evening, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the facts.

A Times reporter visited Sandford in his cell yesterday, but he refused to talk, saying that he had no comments whatever to make regarding the affair, as his attorneys had advised him not to say anything. He is a young fellow about 21 years of age, about the average height, with large, blue eyes and a slight brown mustache. One might put him down as rather hot-tempered, judging from his looks, but he does not appear to be either brutal or vicious, and is said to bear a very good reputation at Santa Monica among those who know him.

When first arrested by Constable Myers and is said to bear a very good reputation at Santa Monica among these who know him.

When first arrested by Constable Myers there was a big lump on the side of his head, where Valdez struck him with a black-snafe. whip at the time of the quarrel, and before Sandford fired the two shotz which have since proved fatal. That welt on the side of his head tends to corroborate Sandford's statement as to the quarrel between them. He says that he went over to the Machado dairy to see Valdez about a horse at 7 o'clock Tuesday night; that a dispute followed, and that Valdez then struck him over the head with the but of his whip. Then it was that Sandford, according to his statement, on the night of the affray, shot Valdez twice with his revolver, the first bullet entering his neck, the second entering the back and lodging in the abdomen.

H. T. Gage, Esq., and Henry O'Melveny have been retained by Sandford for his defense and it is understood that a vigorous effort will be made to procure his acquittal on the ground of self-defense.

A deputy sheriff took Sandford to Santa Monica by a late train yesterday afternoon to attend the Coroner's inquest on the body of Antonio Valdez, as he wished to testify regarding the cause of his death.

that locality apeared in Justice Austin's courtroom, and the long story of neighborhood rows and street fights extending over a considerable period of time was recited in full. The evidence failed to establish that Mr. Beicher exhibited the weapon as alleged, and the case was dismissed.

The case against Fred Parnham, for obtaining money under false pretenses was also dismissed on a technicality, as the pretense on which the money is obtained must be concerning something in the present or past. Deputy District Attorney Rush is of opinion that the name of Fred Stock, the local manager of an English syndicate, was clearly forged to the note Dver which the case arose, and with fraudulent fiftent, but says that it would be difficult to prosecute on the charge of forgery, as the manner in which the name is attached to the note is very ingenious.

Sent to Jail.

When Albert Tappeiner of No. 109 San Pedro street went to book for his kit of plumber's tools restorday morning at the place where he had left them the night before, they were missing. Application at the police station revealed the fact that the tools taken from J. F. McGarrigle on Thursday night were Tappeiner's missing implements, and a complaint, charging McGarrigle with petty larceny, was accordingly sworn out.

He pleaded guilty, when arraigned before Justice Austin, in the Police Court, yesterday afterneon, and will be sentenced today.
